Deep State Crosses Familiar Lines

It is a truth, universally acknowledged, that a big man in possession of a good fortune must be in want of a knife

Memo: Hack truths. Replace with alternate ones.

Happy families are all alike; every unhappy family man is paranoid in his own way

Memo: Replace tiny hands with yuge ones.

It was a bright cold day in April, and the White House clocks were striking thirteen

Memo: It's not his fault. Nothing ever is.

Stately, plump Buckaroo came from the stairhead bearing a bowl of lies on which a mirror and a razor lay crossed

Memo: He's armed now with razor & knife.

It was the best of times, until the big man whose clock struck thirteen made it the worst of times

Memo: He says it's always the best of times.

It was a pleasure to burn

Memo: Was it? But climate change is a hoax.

Call the big man Ishmael, and he will cut you—you terrorist from the Deep State, you radical Islamic loser

Memo: And he'll mess you up bigly. Sad.

All this happened, more or less—with more alt-lies until bigot-man made America hate again
