Frontier: A Definition [1]

November 2, 2020 Featured Poetry [2] TW at Ten [3]

Poetry by Iris Jamahl Dunkle

Frontier: A Definition

1.

A border is porous [slipstream]

We used to swim under river's green skin dapple of tree's reach under water violence is muffled. Current never caught us citizens of the same cool stream, under sun's glare weaving with cries of bird in air.

2.

Historically: pistol-fisted a band of wasteland between settled and primitive outpost built from clear-cut and cleaved bodies.

Lay down the steel sentence. On which slides [steel] [weight]

A front line woven with erased footsteps across Natchez Trace—

- 3. A safety valve lets off steam. Without it. Explosion. A million splinters that pierce—
- 4. Wilderness looked back at us. Green teeth. Eyes blinking. We had no name that suited it.

5.

A border, continuous [a moving line]

Now the river stops its quiet speech with stone teeth

no more threading our bodies through its depths and shadows

under muffle of water's passage we've lost our common tongue under sandy shoal—

6.

A border is a way of life.

7.

We seek the ocean to find the edge of ourselves.

Frontier: A Definition

Published on Talking Writing (https://talkingwriting.com)

Perhaps waves will satiate this churn of desire. Border that time chews.

Everything conquerable

except ourselves. Lone fort. Mishap of raw logs. Secrets stoking the hearth—

Art Information

• "Patterns of Privilege: Bodies of Nature 2 [5]" and "Patterns of Privilege: Past Present 1 [6]" (edited) © Kathleen Caprario; used by permission.

Iris Jamahl Dunkle was the 2017-2018 Poet Laureate of Sonoma County, California. Her newest poetry collection, West: Fire: Archive, is forthcoming from the Center for Literary Publishing in 2021. Her other poetry collections include Interrupted Geographies (Trio House Press, 2017), Gold Passage (Trio House Press, 2013), and There's a Ghost in This Machine of Air (Word Tech, 2015). Dunkle teaches at Napa Valley College and is the poetry director of the Napa Valley Writers' Conference. She wrote the first full-length biography of Charmian London, Jack London's wife—Charmian Kittredge London: Trailblazer, Author, Adventurer [7]—published by the University of Oklahoma Press in Fall 2020.

For more information, visit Iris Jamahl Dunkle's website [8] or follow her @irjohnso [9] on Twitter.

Source URL: https://talkingwriting.com/frontier-definition?fbclid=lwAR0ObRNSgQTvRO6M7xn8o70 -LhhcfgYSyWRe5j8slZ1sgAXs9KR24RnPZ0

Links:

- [1] https://talkingwriting.com/frontier-definition
- [2] https://talkingwriting.com/talkingwriting-categories/featured-poetry
- [3] https://talkingwriting.com/taxonomy/term/2055
- [4] https://soundcloud.com/talking writing
- [5] https://caprarioart.com/artwork/4587698-Patterns-of-Privilege-Bodies-of-Nature-2.html
- [6] https://caprarioart.com/artwork/4539291-Patterns-of-Privilege-Past-Present-1.html
- [7] https://oupress.com/books/15901268/charmian-kittredge-london
- [8] http://www.irisjamahldunkle.com/
- [9] https://twitter.com/irjohnso